

WOMEN'S MINISTRY

Kathy Morales

The CNBC Women's Ministry is joining with churches across Canada to help provide opportunities for women to experience personal and spiritual growth. Women are encouraged to do "ministry" by going, helping and touching the lives of others in their communities. Women long for meaningful connections. This year a number of associational retreats are planned as a time for women to connect and be equipped, inspired and affirmed. We are very blessed to have a number of regional partners who join us in ministry.

Women's Coaching

Our desire is to develop leaders and join women across our convention in intentional coaching relationships. Coaching training is provided.

Women's Evangelism

From sea to sea women are building relationships and partnering with God in reaching people. In many communities the lives of women and families are touched through varied and creative outreach. Jesus Christ brings hope, healing and wholeness that impacts families and entire communities. The good news is God can use all who are ready and willing to talk about Him. Women's evangelism gives encouragement and training to help bring Jesus into everyday conversation.

New Believers Team leader

Kathy Morales, as of April, 2012 has a new role with the CNBC. She is now serving as the New Believers Team Leader.

Her responsibilities in this role are evangelism, women's ministry and ministry to pastor's wives.

Ministry to Pastor's Wives

At our annual convention our ministry wives enjoy a time of encouragement and have an opportunity to connect over lunch. There are several on-line communities where our CNBC pastors' wives can share and encourage one another.

www.flourish.me

Flourish is a ministry of the North American Mission Board for ministry wives.

www.contagiousjoy4him.com

Contagious Joy is available for all Pastors' wives and other women serving in ministry who have questions, want to share feelings, thoughts, emotions, and stories that maybe they are not able to do in every day circumstances.
